TEACHING STATEMENT

As a longtime performer and forever student, I know how detrimental a strict teaching philosophy can be for a student's development. Instead of following a specific method, I offer a holistic approach, taking pieces from different theories and adapting them to fit each student's needs. Lessons with me focus on:

1. Finding each student's unique voice first and then adapting it to specific genres
2. Teaching students who already have a basis in Musical Theatre or Classical technique how to sing contemporary styles
3. Using knowledge of the anatomy of the larynx and physics of voice production to lead my students towards long and vibrant careers
